The relationship between self-esteem and mental health and psychological well-being of parents of children 12-7 years old in the region 2, city of Kermanshah

Methods: The study population of normal parents and parents of students with borderline intelligence (not training) are 12-7 year’s old city of Kermanshah Research Tools: Psychological well-being questionnaire with 77 questions Tabasi Zanjani (1383) 20 items Htrtvn self-esteem and Polowy (1991) General Health Questionnaire GHQ-28, Goldberg 2 Research as well as applied research method is correlation between the types of descriptive research method (non-beta) is Results: The results showed that the mental health of parents of students with common boundary This means that parents have more children border Mental Health. And also in terms of self-esteem were found between parents, students and ordinary boundary and it were found that the most common psychological well-being among parents of children of parents with higher psychological well-being means that the boundary is

Conclusions: Because mental health, self-esteem and psychological well-being is very important, Workshops is important for psychological well-organized training

Keywords: self-esteem, mental health, psychological well-being