Abstract: Restoration of endodontically treated teeth

Introduction: As restoration of endodontically treated teeth is one of the topics that is most discussed with many controversies and most of clinical failures are related to pulpless teeth, this article reviews restoration methods, types of materials, types of post and cores and indications of using posts.

Methods: The search is done in MEDLINE/ PubMed and Elsevier, articles with keywords; "restoration, endodontically treated teeth, post and cores" in previous 10 years were searched, the result was 100 full text articles, 35 of them were selected including 3 review articles related to 2010 and 2011.

Conclusion: Remaining tooth structure, occlusion, functional requirements are determining factors to how restore a pulpless tooth.

Keywords: endodontically treated teeth, restoration, post and core techniques

Azadeh Ghaemi, DDS, Assistant Professor of Jundishpour University of Medical Sciences
Email: AzadehGhaemi@yahoo.com

Ahvaz Jundishapour University of Medical Sciences, School of dentistry, Department of Restorative Dentistry

Presentation: Poster